

Urgent Profit Scenario Unfolding:

My #1 Oil Stock for 2016
is Poised to Soar

The Oil Company That “Cracked the Code” and Beat the Saudis is Now the Lowest-Cost
Producer in the World!

Dear Friend,

The single largest opportunity in the energy markets to come along in decades is on the verge of exploding.

At this moment, a fast-growing, conventional producer has “cracked the code” – finding and developing oil for just $2 per barrel.

This number has been verified by independent third-party reservoir engineers and is confirmed to be an absolute fact.

It is not an estimate...it doesn't have an asterisk beside it...and it's not a “hypothetical.”

This is a conventional producer right now finding and developing oil for just $2 per barrel.

Simply put...you're not going to find a company anywhere with a better asset than this. Not in the United States...and not even in Saudi Arabia.

But I must tell you...

This company's shockingly low production cost is only half the story.

You see...we're right now at the bottom of a generational panic in the oil sector with producers everywhere struggling to turn a profit.

But that's on the verge of ending – and in a big way.

No fewer than FOUR of the world's most successful investors – as I'll show you in a moment – are calling for an imminent spike in oil prices.

And this includes the man who has successfully called every single turn in the oil markets for the last 10 years.

This fast-moving rise in oil prices is now just a matter of time – and is expected to come within the next few weeks.

And when it does, it will trigger a huge move in the share price of my #1 Oil Stock for 2016 – easily making for triple-digit profit potential.

But here's the thing...

Even if all four of these market experts are wrong – and oil prices don't move higher...

My #1 Oil Stock for 2016 still makes money because of its historically low production cost.

We're talking about a company with a built-in margin of safety...and the explosive upside potential of a small cap.

Now...how do I know that this company's oil production will skyrocket as oil prices rise over the next few weeks?

Simple – it's already happened.

When oil prices were high – from 2011 to 2015 – this company grew production at insane rates. During that period, this company's production quintupled!

Imagine...growing production by 500% in just a few years.

That's why I want to rush you a full report on My #1 Oil Stock for 2016 – and in just a moment I'll tell you how you can claim your copy FREE of charge.

But first I need to tell you...

How My #1 Oil Stock for 2016 Beat the Saudis at Their Own Game

Round 1 of the Global Oil War is over—and the Saudis won.

They met their goal—which wasn't exactly what you thought.

Most investors think the Saudis wanted to kill US shale—but that's wrong.

They just wanted to mortally wound it. They wanted to stop it from growing even more. And keep it stopped.

And it wasn't just the US producers they were after. The Saudis also wanted to send a clear message to the lenders, the bankers, who made all that easy credit available to the producers:

You stop lending to high-cost, money-losing oil production, or we will make you pay.

That is Round 2 of the Global Oil War—where the Saudis maximize their revenue, and keep US shale producers—and their lenders—under the Saudi thumb.

But there are a few very smart men—and I'll tell you about a few of them in a minute—who think the price war will be over within weeks.

They think global oil prices are on the verge of a huge run up.

If that happens, my #1 Oil Stock will make me rich...in a hurry. But I'm not counting on any big rise in oil prices because this company beat the Saudis at their own game!

How can anyone do that—beat the Saudis?

1. By drilling the same kind of reservoir the Saudis have.

2. By having the lowest cost production—possibly in the entire world. Yes, they may even have lower cost production than Saudi Arabia.

3. And by having no debt. In fact, this company has a mountain of cash.

They don't have to slow down production at all if they don't want to. With no debt, every dollar of cash flow can grow the company.

No debt repayments. No interest payments. Just keep making more money.

My #1 Oil Stock has grown production by some 500% in the last four years—into the tens of thousands of barrels—and they have no debt.

And now that the oil price has bottomed out, and is giving signs of moving up—they are ready to turn on the taps—just like the Saudis.

Victory is sweet.

The Enormous Advantage of Conventional Oil Reserves

The math is quite simple.

At $30, $40 or $50 per barrel oil the U.S. shale industry can't function.

The cost of drilling horizontal wells and then fracking is them is just too high to make any money at those oil prices.

The very best shale wells might have their all-in, break-even costs at $50 per barrel. The industry calls “all-in” costs full-cycle costs. The $40/b breakeven costs you see in powerpoints are always only half cycle, which doesn’t include land costs.

I would remind you land costs were a BIG part of the shale game, with majors and intermediates paying tens of thousands of dollars per acre.

Trust me, precious few producers made back their full-cycle costs on shale oil wells when oil was $100/barrel.

And who cares about breaking even? Break-even doesn’t mean making money.

You can’t even survive by drilling break-even wells.

There are bills to be paid other than just the cost of drilling. There is office expense, interest payments, and everything else required to run an oil and gas producer.

To make money drilling oil wells at those oil prices you just can’t do it with unconventional shale resources.

Instead you need to have conventional oil reserves.

This oil is inexpensive to produce and it makes money at lower oil prices.

These are the kinds of reserves that the Saudis and their OPEC colleagues have.

Big, conventional, high quality oil discoveries.

Source: Geoexpo.com

That is why they are willing to tolerate lower oil prices. They are still making money—just less money at low prices.

But unlike shale producers who are bleeding cash, the Saudis still generate billions of dollars of free cash flow at low oil prices.

I'm sure you understand that shale wasn't the first choice of western oil producers.

It was the only remaining choice.

There simply aren't any big, onshore, conventional, low cost oil reserves left to find in our part of the world.

Well, “only” is too strong of a word.

Because here and there a conventional oil play can still be discovered.

That's what my #1 Oil Stock did—many times over. My #1 Oil Stock is developing not one but several conventional assets—the same type the Saudis are drilling.

These are discoveries that are similar to those that were made in the State of Texas back around the turn of the 19th century.

Source: Wikipedia

These plays can be developed using low cost conventional techniques—like vertical wells; not expensive horizontal wells.

The conventional rocks are highly porous. That means high flow rates. There is no need for an expensive frack job to open up the pores.

I would say that that the economics of this play are similar to what you could find in Saudi Arabia.

Except they aren't.

They are better.

In 2015 this company's cost for finding and developing each barrel of oil...

Was two dollars per barrel.....

As I said before...that figure has been verified by this producer's independent third party reservoir engineers.

It is a fact.

And if you can find and develop oil for $2 per barrel...you are the world's lowest cost producer.

Total Company	2015	2015
	1P	2P
F&D $/bbl	$2.00	$0.88
FD&A $/bbl	$2.00	$3.57
Recycle Ratio	1P	2P
F&D $/bbl	6.2x	14.0x
FD&A $/bbl	6.2x	3.5x

You don't need an oil price that is very high when your F&D cost is $2.00 per barrel.

And when oil prices are high you absolutely mint money.

You just aren't going to find a company with a better asset than this.

Not in the United States. Not in Saudi Arabia.

Most analysts peg Saudi production costs between $4-$6 per barrel.

That's why I want to rush you my full report on my #1 Oil Stock—the profit margins get insane quickly as the price of oil moves up.

$ 50 Oil Works Better For My #1 Oil Stock Than $ 100 Oil Does For A Shale Producer

From 2009 through May 2015 United States oil production surged like never before, like no one dreamed was possible.

Production in the country had been in decline for 40 years.

High oil prices and easy credit allowed shale to change everything.

The Rise of Oil Production in the United States

Four-Week Moving Average of Total U.S. Production, Thousands of Barrels per Day

Very few people saw it coming. The Saudis and OPEC sure didn't.

By 2014 production at the shale producers was booming. But free cash flow at these shale companies was NOT.

The reason that the Saudi princes are so rich is that their oil flows easily from the ground. It costs very little to produce.

Shale oil is a completely different animal. The rocks that the oil is trapped in are terrible for oil production. It is expensive to crack those rocks open and let some of the oil out.

Shale producers had to spend every penny of cash flow at $100 oil to grow even a bit. But even at $100 oil, the shale industry vastly outspent the cash flow.

Huge amounts of debt were added to balance sheets.

Low interest rates and easy credit made that debt manageable.

And created the perfect recipe for a production boom.

Given that these companies didn't generate any free cash flow when oil prices were high...

It is no surprise what has happened now that oil prices have dropped by 70%.

These shale producers don't even have enough cash coming in to maintain current levels of production.

Forget about growing it.

And they sure aren't going to get any cash from a lender these days.

Source: Pawnhero.ph

Now I want you to compare this performance of the shale producers to the performance of my OGIB conventional producer.

A company that can develop oil like Saudi Arabia. Without all of the expense that is involved with shale.

When oil prices were high this company grew production at insane rates. From 2011 through 2015 this company's production quintupled.

Imagine....growing production by 500% in just a few years.

That is impressive, but it pales when I think of how this company achieved this growth rate.

While the shale industry was vastly outspending cash flow and piling up debt in order to grow at a modest rate, my #1 Oil Stock—a conventional producer—achieved far faster growth by living within cash flow and rarely using debt at all.

That is what a best-in-industry asset does for an oil producer.

You can grow the right way, without over-extending your balance sheet. Low cost always wins.

The Saudis know it; that is why they have opened the taps.

My OGIB conventional oil pick has even lower costs than the Saudis.

Low cost wins when commodity prices are high AND when commodity prices are low.

That's why it's The Company That Beat the Saudis.

Low cost wells result in very fast paybacks and strong cash flows.

When oil prices are high these best in class assets generate huge returns on the money invested.

That allows for incredible rates of production growth—because the cash can be recycled quickly. You will grow a lot faster if you get all the money back from well #1 in six months, and everybody else is getting it back in 18 months.

You can drill three wells when everybody else can only drill one!

That growth can be achieved without taking on much, if any, debt.

Even with the oil prices we are currently looking at in 2016 this company is going to continue to grow production.

Incredibly—it will do it while living within cash flow.

The shale producers laying down rigs and letting production go into decline.

Source: Reuters

My OGIB conventional producer will just keep on growing because it has the lowest cost in the entire industry.

And not a penny of interest to pay because of its debt free balance sheet.

These are the kinds of companies that we all want to own.

And now with a panicked oil sector we are able to do that at an incredible price.

At the price that the stock of this company is currently selling....

This is the single best combination of risk vs reward that you are ever going to find.

An opportunity that could only be found in a market where everyone has lost hope.

The low risk is due to a debt free Fort Knox balance sheet combined with an incredible asset base.

The reward exists thanks to a stock price that has been crushed by the extreme fear that has gripped the entire oil sector.

This is one of those rare times that a great business can be bought at a discount price.

I've compiled all the details behind this remarkable company – including specific buy instructions – in a new research report I'd like you to have FREE of charge. I'll tell you how you can claim your copy in just a moment.

For now, though, I need to tell you why...

Your Window into This Enormous Profit Opportunity Is Rapidly Closing

You may have never heard of Pierre Andurand...as he isn't big on publicity.

Source: Forbes

You aren't going to see Andurand on CNBC sharing his opinion. He won't be writing any articles providing his views. Andurand doesn't need to race around promoting himself.

Instead this reclusive European hedge fund manager lets his performance speak for him.

When it comes to predicting oil prices, his performance has spoken volumes.

There is no person on this planet that has come close to him over the last ten years in predicting where the price of oil is going.

Importantly, Andurand didn't just make the predictions.

He made big money from those predictions.

He has called every single turn in the oil market since he opened his fund.

Andurand got his start in the business trading energy for the 800-pound gorilla of finance, Goldman Sachs before launching his own hedge fund back in 2008...when oil prices were soaring.

Andurand knew just what to do.

First he rode oil prices up for a while. In the month of February of 2008 alone his fund made 30% alone.

Then he prepared himself to deliver a master blow.

Entering the summer of 2008 the entire market had bought into the idea that the world was short oil...and that prices were headed higher.

Around this time Goldman Sachs itself issued a call for oil to hit $200 per barrel.

As is often the case when everyone is leaning one way, it pays big to investigate the other side.

Andurand is a contrarian by nature – and when his thorough research confirmed what he suspected, he went for the jugular.

He aggressively shorted oil as it neared $150 per barrel.

And then watched as it collapsed to $30 per barrel by the end of the year.

His investors reaped huge returns in the subsequent oil price collapse from his ability to see the turn.

Andurand's fund made an unbelievable 209% in 2008.

And then he put the cherry on top.

In the spring of 2009 he switched his position—and went long oil.

This time on the basis of his belief that OPEC had cut a sufficient amount of production to send prices higher. He and his investors then enjoyed the long steady rise in prices from the bottom in March of 2009.

That is, until Andurand got very short oil in September of 2014 just as the oil price was beginning to unravel.

It is one thing to call one top in the oil market.

To then six years later call the next top shows that there is some serious ability involved.

After again getting short oil at just the right time in September 2014...

Andurand upped his short position in November of that year when OPEC refused to cut production.

And he stayed short, all the way down...again making a killing for investors.

But unlike in 2009—when he quickly closed his short position and went long to play the rebound—this time Andurand did not reverse his trade.

He saw no reason for oil to recover through all of 2015.

So he again called the top of the oil market like he did the last time he crashed.

And this time he did not go long again correctly predicting what oil prices would do for 18 months.

That shows you that he isn't just being contrarian for the sake of being contrarian.

The consistent timing of his trades show you that his oil market analysis is delivering these results.

For 18 months Andurand saw no reason to believe that oil prices were ready to rebound.

He has not acted to profit on the rebound as he did in 2009.

He hasn't done anything.....

Until now.

Yes – Pierre Andurand, the man who has called every major oil market turn in recent memory – believes that the turn in the market has again come.

He has gone long oil – and he believes he won't have to wait long to be rewarded.

Andurand sees oil prices turning higher in the next month as global inventory levels stop increasing and start shrinking.

The move in oil in his opinion will be swift.

By the end of this year Andurand sees oil at $70...and by 2017 he is predicting $80 per barrel.

Companies in the oil sector have been deserted by investors.

When oil prices start moving the move in stock prices is going to be much more significant.

Your Next Chance to Turn $ 50,000 into $ 1.8 Million!

The last time there was an opportunity like this was March 2009.

Investors in the financial sector then couldn't determine quality companies from those destined to fail.

Fear had taken away the ability of almost all investors to think rationally.

It isn't hard to understand why people are so afraid. In 2009 the media was telling us that oil companies were going to fail. That we were going into a depression. That all hope was lost.

But I didn't see that. I saw a great opportunity and started my Oil and Gas Investments Bulletin.

My first pick was Pacific Rubiales (PRE-TSX) at $7, a conventional producer in Colombia. It went to $36. My second pick was Coastal Energy (CEN-TSX) at $2.50. It was bought out 4 years later for $20 and I owned it to $16.

My third pick was Tri-Star, which was bought out just a month later for a 40% gain.

The point is...when oil starts roaring, there are massive and quick capital gains for investors.

That's how I've grown my energy portfolio from $50,000 in 2009 to $1.8 million today.

Completely Debt Free With A War Chest Of Cash

Warren Buffett once offered some very astute advice on using debt.

He said that smart people don't need to use debt in order to get rich.

And stupid people have no business using it.

In the oil business, the companies with the very best assets also have the very best balance sheets.

The reason for this is simple—these producers don't need to use debt in order to grow. Companies with lesser quality assets do.

High quality assets allow these companies to generate high rates of return on the money they invest drilling wells.

They allow oil producers to harness the power of compounding.

“The most powerful force in the universe is compound interest.”

Albert Einstein

Source: Quotesgram.com

With the wells that they drill constantly generating lots of cash, there is no need to borrow.

Meanwhile companies with lower quality assets need to borrow a lot of money in order to grow.

The wells that these companies drill, simply don't repay the money invested fast enough to grow without debt.

Leveraging up a company built on mediocre assets can work as long as commodity prices stay extremely high.

But the commodity business is by nature a cyclical one.

Shale producers that built growth on a balance sheet loaded with debt don't work at low prices.

The Saudis know that, which is why they have opened the taps.

Not only are the assets of these companies not able to turn a profit at low oil prices, but they also have to pay interest on the debt that they accumulated when oil price were high.

With cash flows weakened, there is very little money left over after making interest payments. The production and the share price of these companies turn into a death spiral for investors.

My conventional OGIB oil producer has none of these problems.

This company has a conventional oil play that works at low oil prices.

It can beat the Saudis at this low cost game.

And this company doesn't have to pay a penny of interest because it has no debt.

In fact, this company actually receives interest payments—thanks to the big war chest of cash that it has sitting on its balance sheet.

That gives this company a double layer of protection from low oil prices.

First, its low cost oil play means it can drill profitable oil wells at lower prices than everyone else.

Second, with no debt and a bank account full of cash this company can withstand literally any oil price that it might be faced with.

And just think of the acquisition opportunities that might be available right now for a company loaded with cash.

The Real Story Here Will Be Explosive Growth

I fell in love with my OGIB conventional oil pick because of the throwback conventional oil play that it has.

I mean—Finding and Development (F&D) costs of $2.00 per barrel truly are from another time.

Then I became enamored with that debt-free balance sheet, loaded with cash.

That balance sheet is such a breath of fresh air in a world of overleveraged zombie oil producers.

This asset and this balance sheet make this the oil producer that I want to own in a world of $30 per barrel oil.

But I want to make something very clear.

This is also the oil producer that I want to own if oil prices head higher.

Over the long term this company will continue to be a high-growth story.

Just as it has been from the moment the company started developing its low cost conventional oil play.

Over the last four years the company has increased its production by 600%.

600%

That is incredible.

Even more incredible is that the company has done it with a debt free balance sheet.

Followers of the management team behind this company aren't surprised by what has been achieved.

I've been following this group for years because I know they are among the best in the business.

They are the types of serial entrepreneurs that I love to invest alongside.

These guys live to create value for shareholders. Because they themselves are major shareholders.

The last company that they built and sold looked exactly the same.

1. Very rapid production growth.
2. Prudent management of the corporate balance sheet.
3. Exceptional ability to lock down a world class oil play.
4. Very happy shareholders.

There is huge upside in this, their new company's stock price today, simply from the panic in the oil sector subsiding.

Like the entire sector, this company has been sold off.

Yet even in 2016 with oil prices at ridiculously low levels my OGIB conventional oil pick will grow production.

When oil prices start to rise it will grow even faster—like it did over the past five years as production soared 600%—into the tens of thousands of barrels a day.

That's right, I'm not talking about a start-up junior that is going from 200 to 1000 barrels a day. This is the Real McCoy.

I believe that oil prices are likely to rise moderately.

I see a range between $45 to $60 per barrel in the coming few years.

The Saudis aren't going to let the shale producers breathe.

That price environment is perfect for my OGIB conventional oil pick.

With its low cost assets it can generate loads of cash flow, while benefitting from the fact that low rig counts keep drilling costs lower.

All the while, management at shale producers have to obsess about the price of oil.

Management at my conventional oil pick knows that it is built for any oil price.

The Upside Of A Small-Cap With The Safety Of A Major

The stock prices of smaller oil producers are many times more volatile than the oil and gas majors—usually, for good reason.

Most of the smaller players don't have the balance sheet strength of The Big Boys.

That makes them dependent on the capital markets for funding.

Right now the capital markets are closed to most smaller producers.

Nobody wants to give these companies money.

The Big Mistake the market makes is that it treats all of these smaller producers exactly the same.

The fear creates selling with very little consideration of true financing risk.

I'm telling you that this is a huge opportunity for an investor with a contrarian instinct like yourself.

Source: 25talent.com

There are some real diamonds that have been treated like trash by the market.

Like my OGIB conventional oil pick.

A company with no need for financing.

This management team has always run the companies they run with a best in class balance sheet.

Currently they are sitting with a debt free balance sheet and enough cash to cover operations for several years.

Except they don't need to even touch that cash. And they have no plans to touch that cash. Unlike everyone else in the industry.

This company is able to live off of cash flow even at current oil prices....

And still grow!

That is the power of that world class oil play. The benefit of having $2 per barrel F&D costs. This company offers you the best of both worlds.

Total Company	2015	2015
	1P	2P
F&D $/bbl	$2.00	$0.88
FD&A $/bbl	$2.00	$3.57
Recycle Ratio	1P	2P
F&D $/bbl	6.2x	14.0x
FD&A $/bbl	6.2x	3.5x

A stock price that has suffered along with its small cap peer group. And a balance sheet that provides the sleep at night safety of an Exxon Mobil.

But Exxon Mobil actually has debt....this company doesn't....it just has a balance sheet full of cash.

My OGIB conventional producer has something else that Exxon Mobil doesn't.

The ability to grow for many years to come.

Like all of the majors Exxon has hardly increased production for a decade.

Meanwhile even in 2016 with depressed oil prices my OGIB conventional oil pick is going to grow.

If oil prices rebound at all that growth would accelerate immediately. And with no debt, all that extra cash flow goes straight to the bottom line and into investors' pockets.

The reality is that it has a better balance sheet and growth prospects than any of the majors.

This company is the best combination of risk and reward in the stock market today. It is very likely the best combination of risk and reward that I'll ever find.

Very little risk thanks to its record low costs of just $2/barrel, and it's Fort Knox balance sheet.

Big reward through growth at any oil price.

The Time To Act is Now

There is a reason that I'm pounding the table on this particular OGIB stock.

And it isn't because it is going to fly if oil prices start moving higher.....though it will.

The reason that I love this stock is because what happens if oil prices don't move higher.

It is called downside protection folks.

This company has the best balance sheet in the oil and gas business.

It has the lowest cost assets in the oil and gas business.

It can beat the Saudis at this low oil price game they are playing.

This company has a proven and fully aligned management group.

No company is better equipped to ride out lower oil prices for longer than this company.

That is why I believe it offers the greatest risk vs reward opportunity in the entire stock market today.

Not just the energy sector.

While this stock does offer great protection if the turn in oil prices is years away.

We need to be aware that signs are pointing to the fact that the turn in oil prices is likely very near.

There is no time to wait for investors looking to profit from that turn.

My OGIB conventional oil pick is the best way to do this.

You can get long oil immediately so you won't miss the turn.

But you don't have to worry about that turn being much further out than expected.

I told you earlier about how the great oil trader Pierre Andurand sees oil prices moving within a month.

He isn't the only world class investor who sees this coming.

Hedge Fund manager Kyle Bass of Hayman Capital has recently said exactly the same thing.

Back in December he explained that he believes that investors had a window of less than 6 months to get long oil.

Or miss the best investment opportunity that he believes we will get this decade.

Six months from when Bass said that would put the turn happening in May 2016.

Or just one month away.

That would be very consistent with Andurand's view.

Kyle Bass is a man that we should listen to.

He made a half a billion dollars predicting the collapse of the U.S. housing market in 2008.

Then he made a whole bunch more by predicting the European debt crisis.

And then he topped that off by getting in front of the collapse of the Japanese Yen.

His macro forecasting ability has made him and his investors filthy rich.

Bass making this call on oil is very important.

The fact that Andurand is making the same call makes it even more interesting.

And there is still another oil trading legend who believes the same thing.

Although this man isn't just a legend.

He has proven to be so good at predicting oil prices that the other oil traders simply refer to him as "God".

Well when "God" speaks I listen.

The name of the man is actually Andy Hall and he runs the hedge fund Astenback Capital.

Source: Bloomberg

Just like Andurand and Bass he believes we are on the cusp of a major oil price move higher.

Within months Hall believes oil will hit $60.

And before we are 12 months out he expects to see $80 per barrel.

A move in oil prices from $35 to $80 is a big move.

The move in oil stock prices will be far more significant than that.

Especially small cap producers like my OGIB conventional oil pick.

When the market becomes convinced that an oil recovery is really here the rally in this sector will be one for the ages.

That is why now is the time act.

If you miss the first move higher you are going to miss out on huge profits.

You see, I'll talk about it – LIVE – on my next Subscriber Conference Call, coming up soon.

We'll be covering every step of this trade at length. I'll tell you more on my conversations with the CEO, the partnerships, and new deals on the horizon.

Then I'll go over my other portfolio positions.

Next, you can ask me any questions about any of the open positions...

Where I'm overweight... And which positions and sectors I'm looking to get into.

Honestly, subscribers find the live conference call to be tremendously helpful, and a great edge to help their investments.

It also shows you firsthand how much legwork I do – every day – to help you grow the energy part of your portfolio.

In fact here's what you'll get as a new subscriber:

- Regular Issues of the Oil & Gas Investments Bulletin: You'll get full updates on the positions in my personal portfolio — what I'm buying, what I'm selling, and why. In other words, every time I make a move, I'll show you exactly how to get into position for profits.
- Buy / Sell Alerts: You'll get these alerts sent directly to your email inbox. That way, you'll have the opportunity to take quick action on your trades
- Quarterly conference calls — These are live Q&A sessions where subscribers can get updates directly from me on any position in the OGIB portfolio.
- Interim Bulletins: I'll send you these updates whenever I have a time-sensitive insight to share that could impact an existing position, or set the stages for a new position.
- 24/7 Members-Only Web Access: You'll get a dedicated password for accessing the OGIB portfolio, along with every weekly issue, Buy / Sell Alert, Interim Bulletin, Special Report, and Guest Commentary I've ever published.

And – as soon as you sign up below — you'll get access to the trade that's now my biggest investment in the history of the Oil & Gas Investments Bulletin.

Kind regards,

Keith Schaefer
Editor, the Oil & Gas Investments Bulletin

Customer Testimonials

“Keith – I have acquired well over 100k in PEIX – so I am coming to the [March 1st] conference and look forward to meeting you. You have made me and my clients the most money ever in 50+ years in the business and I sincerely thank you – and have to pay Uncle Sam upwards of 6 figures – and he needs it!. Biggest positions remain NTI,GPPE, PEIX. Have traded a few others as well.”

“Thanks again for great work – I may have bought a few of your PEIX Friday! Cheers.”
- Tom D.”

“Hi Keith-a couple of years ago I subscribed on a trial basis and then unsubscribed. I found that I was being bombarded with your research with recommendations from around the globe, with little apparent focus. FORTUNATELY, I took a subscription some 1 ½ years ago and I could not be happier. Your reports have been superb, as have been your results. I have jumped on many of your recommendations with really quite spectacular results. I get your reports and then dig into the companies web sites, both of which I enjoy immensely. Congratulations on such good work, I think it is amazing.”

“...Thank you for your [latest pick]. I missed GPRE because I had negative feelings about ethanol but your analysis was right and early. So your [latest pick] is now my biggest position. I know you caution about putting too much into speculative stocks but this one feels right for a big move.... Well, I think I’ve already recouped a lifetime membership... Really enjoyed the two conferences I’ve attended in Vancouver. Quality presentations and very informative. I’m a happy subscriber.”

“Keith...The way you handled the PEIX recommendation just goes to prove your metal and ethical standards. They are the highest. Congratulations and that comes from a person who has learned over the years most are just out to take your money first and then maybe provide something that will help you. But taking a person’s money is their first and foremost objective. Lots of people call themselves experts but you really are a true expert with great ethics and I am proud to subscribe to your publication... If I am no longer your client, I have passed.

Your loyal client,

- Dan J.

“Hi, I definitely want to continue the OGIB subscription. It has been the best value of any subscription that I have seen. I love it.”

- Bill R.

“Thank you Keith, for the very quick and straight forward answer. Your investment bulletin has become my most valuable and trusted investment source of advice. You are providing an excellent service. Thank you again.”

- Linda

“I certainly appreciate your thoughtful email as well as the Newsletter and the many updates. My hat off to you and the entire staff – this subscription has been a delight as well as financially rewarding. Please renew my subscription.”

- Jeff B.

“Don’t know if you’ll get this Keith....but if you do thank you!! (No I didn’t buy as much as you did but I did read the material AND acted on your info). No doubt I’ll read your bulletins with even greater interest going forward....Again Thank You!”

- Rick D.

“You are good – after 52 years in the business your service is the best – i personally own 32.000 shares and have another 125,000 in my managed accounts. After being beat up with gold this should make up all of the losses in the next few months – great research again – keep digging!”

“I would like to again thank you for your excellent newsletter. You do a very good job in spotting trends, risks and opportunities.”
– Johan (Sweden)

“Keith – I’ve been hanging around the investment patch since 1960 – EVERY part – finance brokerage inv banking trust RIA (now) brokerage – yours is the BEST research I get and has been since I subscribed 3 (?) years ago. Just booked 30k selling a little NTI and ALDW for me. Also majored in Petroleum Eng and geology at Univ of Texas -’58. Keep up the GREAT work- also picked up 5k of GPPE – $8.98.”
- CHEERS, TOM D.

“Process my renewal. You guys are just too good.”
Regards, Len

-----

“Thanks. Keith got back to me yesterday, a testament to your excellent service... I am extremely pleased with your site, service, style of thinking and writing. Thanks.”
- Brian

“Hi Keith,

I want to Thank You Very Much for showing us your Personal Portfolio! You show us what you bought and sold and at what price. More importantly you show us How Many Shares, NO newsletter I know show this! You put your money where your mouth is Profits and Losses, even with your knowledge you make mistakes. You tell us that you have a hard time deciding when to get out in your losses. I have a very hard time and emotionally hope it comes back up but ride it down too low. I am trying to be a machine and get out at a certain percentage.

Thank You Very Much, and Very Much Appreciated.”
- Diane Q.

“We have made some serious dollars following Keith, and look forward to more. Thank you.”
Best Regards,
- Dave A., Ontario

“I have a substantial position in an OGIB position and own it because you made me aware of this unbelievable opportunity. $400 dollars for your subscription has netted $50K in the last 10 months.” –
- Bob W.

“Please renew my subscription. Tell Keith that this is the most well researched accurate newsletter I have ever received. DTX and PSN have paid for my subscription until eternity ... or hell freezes over.

Thank You.”

- Ian S. (Regina Sask Canada)

“Hi Keith, O&G has become my favorite newsletter, mainly because of the no nonsense approach. No overdone promotions, just solid work behind the articles. Thanks. Living in Southern California, I was wondering if you had any further information about Ridgeline Energy’s purification system that is “testing” in So. Cal. as mentioned in the article. I would like to find out more about it if you can help. Couldn’t find anything on their website, but I am new to this sleuthing for info. Anything is appreciated. Thanks.”

- Michael C.

“Keep up your good work; it is truly special.”

- William K.

“On 12/21/2010 Keith bought 2000 shares of GLNG & sent a strong opinion to his readers about why he bought it– I liked it & bought 1000 shares @15.14. It closed Fri. @ $43 – What more could you want for Christmas!!! Wed. it will even be long term!! As far as service, they answer phone calls[in english] & return E- Mails ! Thank`s Keith!

- palm grower Gene & Merry Christmas to all & GO Keystone !!”

“Keith Schaefer is a jewel. He tracks his complete portfolio, showing every purchase and sale he has ever made. I have done well in a relatively short time by 1) steering away from the companies I do not understand and going for the ones I can understand and 2) investing quickly where he is particularly in love with a stock and can come up with both numbers and a story that makes sense.”

“He also tracks every holding and reports regularly on their current situations, often after personal discussions with management. He clearly has the most inside information about Canadian companies but he has taken a whirl on some non-Canadians as well. He has a way of getting slightly ahead of the crowd, which might mean a little more patience is required.”

-----

“He has both a monthly subscription price and an annual rate so you can try him for a month, get a complete evaluation of his holdings and quit if you are not impressed. Like tons of people, he has been a little bit burned by GasFrac because they haven’t been able to put it all together. He did sell some but he has a big stake which he acquired at well below the current price. It is still a good long-term situation.”

- Donald G.

“I am so excited that I met Keith – most of what I have bought (or am holding) is doing well. When I first started I would just buy a little of everything and I hated the losses. Now I do a “bit” of my own research and decide on what risk I really want to take. That approach has worked well for me. I met a multitude of people at these shows to subscribe with and I must say that I am happy I chose you Keith. Thanks,”

- Barb K, BC

“The weekly wrap I just received is exactly the format I have been looking for. Since I started my subscription last April I am showing a 53% gain. I would highly recommend your newsletter to others.”

- Jerry M, Florida

“You are a hand for those that were looking for a man of honor and rare concepts ... I will be looking forward to what is being done with you and the best of everything to you and your thoughts of gift. It takes a rare being like you to bring about what the world is amiss.”

- Rosella L.

“Just a note of thanks for writing such a great news letter. And this may sound corny but you seem like a nice guy. I’ve long believed nice is a much undervalued trait. I’m new with you but have cancelled all my other advisories and look forward to good trading and learning more...”

- Robert T.

“I’ve been reading over your reports and I’m very impressed with your concise and straightforward approach in your research reports. As someone who previously generated investment research, it is pleasure to read an investment thesis that gets to the point, is well thought out, and presented in a logical manner.”

- Mike E., Ontario

“Thank-you for helping turn my portfolio around in the short few months I’ve been with you.”

- Mario D., Ontario Canada

“Keep up the good work with your newsletter. Your research is extremely insightful and thoughtfully approached.”

- Regards,

Michael

“Not only do you have an excellent service, your client relations are outstanding. With all you have to do in research etc etc, your speed of response to my enquiries is most impressive. I like what you do and how you do it. Kind regards,”

- Geoff

“Keith, I have paid for my annual subscription on my purchase of Vero Energy within two days! Thank you.”

Bill G., British Columbia

“Can u try to keep the returns more reasonable – these heights (of returns) make me dizzy.”

- Thomas C, Washington State

-----
“I am very pleased with your service so far. I find your writing style easy to read and understand and I value the amount of research you do to arrive at your conclusions and recommendations.”

- Geoff D., Alberta

“Hi Keith, as a new subscriber and long time investor I find your style refreshing and honest. Thank you...I have already paid off my subscription many times over!”

Bob B., Victoria B.C.

“I find Schaefer’s research is highly useful, his writing succinct and many recommendations profitable”.

- L. Backman, B.C.

“Keith – Excellent deal and excellent value. Thanks.”

- T. Citrin

“The experience I have had has been 1st class.”

Keep up the good work

-----

“The service has been excellent for me. I have enjoyed excellent returns and fully expect several more of Keith’s ideas to grow in the coming months and years. I am very impressed with Keith’s research and communication. Thank you to all of you. You are awesome.”

- Gene F., Minnesota

“The newsletter is the best investment subscription I have made in 25 years.”

Regards

- Jerry M., Florida
-----

“I am beginning to realize that this is the best thing I ever did with $40.00 & hope I can capitalize on doing so! I am looking forward to future bulletins. Again, thank you.”

- Blair S., SK

“Just a quick line to say what a great newsletter you put out. I appreciate the detail, and focus on markets and how markets will trade as well as technical details about the companies. I also liked the subscriber summit and seeing the company videos.”

Thanks again.

- Bruce P.
-----

“I think Keith is doing a great job: his letters are inserting and informative (and honest); and it is very important – it is not all about $$.”

- Nikita Y.

Hi Keith,

“Congratulations!!!! Your ONR call is one of the best I’ve ever seen. We only have 2,000 at $9.40, but that will more than pay for Christmas.”

Thank you,

- Brian F.

“I will be a subscriber for as long as you have the service.....not just for the picks which for the most part have kept me in positive territory.(Thank-you Sir)...but the market insight you provide.”

Mario D., Ontario

“Many thanks for creating this venue for us who want to provide the very best ROI for our investment. Your information is very interesting compering though all the report I have been receiving in the last 10 years. Your report is clear, easy to understand, educational, well-planned, and exciting report. Keep up the great work!”

- A. Arbabi

“Thank you for the prompt actions you took re: canceling my subscription. It’s a pleasure to see a company that is focused on their customers.”

- Kim H., Illinois

“Keith’s strength is making investing decisions a bit less risky with analysis and bringing new ideas forward and in being honest. It is a good service and the idea of telling subs what you are doing and why is effective. Your responses to my individual questions and concerns have been timely and I appreciate your taking the time.”

- Daniel J.
